Information Statement

The following information statement for the Department for Child Protection (DCP) is published pursuant to Section 9 of the Freedom of Information Act 1991 ("FOI Act").

The FOI Act provides members of the public with a legally enforceable right of access to documents held by the SA Government, subject only to such restrictions as are reasonably necessary for the proper administration of the Government. It also enables people to apply for the amendment of records concerning their personal affairs if they consider them to be incomplete, incorrect, out-of-date or misleading.

Structure and functions of the Department for Child Protection

DCP’s vision is for all children and young people to grow up well cared for, connected and empowered to reach their full potential. The department works to care and protect children and young people by working together with our partners to address abuse and neglect and to keep them safe from further harm.

DCP has 6 strategic objectives to support families and carers and to improve outcomes for children and young people:

- supporting families and carers
- addressing the overrepresentation of Aboriginal children in care
- improving care experiences
- working together
- building leadership and learning
- delivering a better system.

Department’s functions affecting the public

The department works with at-risk families to investigate notifications of child abuse and neglect, support families to keep the child(ren) in their care, or intervene to remove children and/or young people when they are at risk and unable to stay with their family.

Public participation in agency policy development

Public consultation is undertaken in the development of policy when appropriate to do so. Target consultation is often undertaken with key stakeholders, peak groups and service providers in the development of policy that impacts them and their members.

Documents can then be obtained or inspected at one of the department’s office locations, including the department head office at 31 Flinders Street, Adelaide 5000, during business hours (Mon – Fri, 9:00am – 5:00pm).

Making an application for access to documents

In accordance with section 13 of the FOI Act, applications for access to documents held by an agency must:

- be made in writing; and
- specify that the application is made under the Freedom of Information Act 1991; and
- be accompanied by the application fee or claim for fee waiver; and
- provide sufficient detail to enable identification of the document(s); and
- specify an address in Australia for the service of notices; and
- specify the preferred form of access.

Further information about the requirements and process for an application for access to documents can be found on the department’s website.

Making an application to amend a document

Applications can be made to amend a record held by the agency concerning personal affairs if they are incomplete, incorrect, out of date, or misleading.
In accordance with section 31 of the FOI Act, applications for amendment of documents held by an agency must:

- be made in writing; and
- specify that the application is made under the Freedom of Information Act 1991; and
- provide sufficient detail to enable identification of the record(s) to be amended; and
- contain information showing why it is believed the record(s) is incomplete, incorrect, out-of-date or misleading; and
- must be accompanied by such information as is necessary to complete the agency’s records or bring them up to date; and
- specify an address in Australia for the service of notices.

Further information about the requirements and process for an application to amend a document can be found on the department’s website.

Internal review of an FOI determination

The FOI Act allows the applicant to seek an internal review of a decision made by the department to refuse access to a document, or release a document in part, or for any other reason the applicant is aggrieved by the determination.

Further information about the process to apply for an internal review can be found on the department’s website.

Information and documents available outside of FOI

Provision of information to care leavers

Section 153 of the Children and Young People (Safety) Act 2017 implements a recommendation of the Child Protection Systems Royal Commission report ‘The Life They Deserve’ enabling care leavers to access, free of charge, original and copy documents relating to them, instead of having to apply to apply for access under the FOI Act.

For information on how to apply for access to departmental records, see the department’s website.

Provision of adoption information

Section 27 of the Adoption Act 1988 enables certain people who are affected by an adoption to access information.
For more information on how to apply see the department’s website.
