

Non-government agencies (homes and institutions)

In addition to records held by DCP, there are non-government agencies that hold records relating to care leavers.

Some care leavers lived in children's homes that were not operated by the government. DCP does not hold records from non-government homes. If a care leaver indicates a non-government home in their request, and the department is aware of how to access records from this home, information will be provided on how to access this information when the request is completed.

The Find and Connect web resource is for care leavers to find out where records are held and how to access them: www.findandconnect.gov.au.

Below is an extract from the website of the South Australian Homes and non-government agency responsible for their records.
